There are at present about fifty men serving fourteen day sentences in the Tombs for liquor law violations. What percentage of these are "dummies" has not been ascertained, but Marshal McCarthy has suggested that the prisoners be brought into court a second time for identification. Prohibition enforcement agents and deputies of Mr. McCarthy's staff who made the original arrests will be on hand to check up on the prisoners.

GOVERNOR MAY KILL ANTI-SCALPERS' BILL

Expresses Doubt as to Constitutionality of Regulating Theatre Ticket Prices.

visions because of unconstitutional regulation of private business.

Two measures were before the Governor. One limits to fifty cents the profit ticket scalpers may make. The other drives speculators off the streets and out of doorways and hallways, and this latter probably will become a law. Louis Marshall made the chief argument against the bills, contending that the proposal to regulate ticket prices was a volation of constitutional rights. If the Legislature can restrict the price for which a ticket may be sold by a speculator, it may fix the price any agent may charge for food, coal or any commodity, the lawyer argued.

"The ticket business is a private enterprise and a great convenience to the public," Mr. Marshall said. "It is a privilege for the man who has poor receiving or is deef to be able to get a

"T could not sign a bill I believe to be unconstitutional. I am not denying the abuses which exist; that is not the point. But this proposal is to license a man to sell a ticket at a certain price and to make it a crime for him to sell at a higher price. I am not fully satisfied that the bills are unconstitutional. Of course, if there is merely a doubt in my mind I believe the measures should become a law and let the courts decide
